Property taxation will be the topic of an Illinois House Revenue Committee hearing Wednesday at the Hamel Community Building, with much of the attention focused on the Madison County Board of Review and its assessment policies and decisions.

Many residents of rural areas of the county near the eastern border are convinced that valuations and multipliers are "ripping them off." And they think that the situation is aggravated by "political cronyism" in which influential property owners and public officials are able to obtain preferential treatment through initial assessment decisions, adjustments following publication of the assessments, and "certificates of error" after receipt of tax bills.

James W. "Jim" Barton, the Review Board's supervisor of assessments—a former Granite City Township assessor and a current target of the Organizing Committee of Eastern Madison County—says western areas have been paying far more proportionately than the east and that corrective action was essential.

Noting that new township multipliers were approved by himself and all three Review Board members, Barton attributes part of the current dissatisfaction to public frustration over inflation and tax increases. Rejecting the Organizing Committee's suggestion that he resign, he says all appropriate assessment steps are being taken and that his departure wouldn't ease the tax burden.

Critics of Barton say that judges and elective and appointive officials figure prominently on certificate-of-error lists, whose timing is such that there is no formal public notice of the change. State Senator Sam Vadala says he may introduce legislation to require publication of the error lists as well as the currently-published assessment change lists.

Barton asserts that adjustments exceed error certificates in number, and that the latter are necessary to achieve fairness.

Certificate procedures are known by many citizens and taxpayers, and were announced by Review Board members at public meetings on assessing complaints, Barton said.

Many certificates achieve justice for senior citizens who filed for homestead exemptions too late, and many others alter obvious errors and inequities, he added.

Estimates of "taxes lost"—said to total $508,000 in the past year—assume erroneously that all certificates lower

Slain in home

Shot twice with a .22-caliber pistol, Leon "Leo" LaBott, 56, of 59 Janine Court, was pronounced dead at his home at 10:15 p.m. Friday by Deputy Coroner Dick McNeill.

Authorities believe he surprised a burglar, who killed him about two hours before he was found.

According to the Madison County Sheriff's department, his wife, Mrs. Maria LaBott, returned home at about 10 p.m. Friday after playing bingo and found her husband lying at the foot of the basement stairs.

He was wounded above the left eye and in the right side of the chest, entering a lung.

A search of the home and area was made by deputies, but no weapon was found.

A sheriff's spokesman said a homicide investigation is under way. There were no apparent signs of a struggle and nothing seemed to be missing.

Mr. LaBott was alone in the house, and police could find no obvious signs of forced entry. However, two bedroom drawers were found open.

Born in Canada, Mr. LaBott was self-employed as owner and operator of the Granite City Roofing and Supplies, 3931 Lake Drive. He had lived in Granite City for the past 12 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maria LaBott; one son, John Baker of Granite City, one brother and one sister, both living in Wisconsin; and one grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

Attorney indicted

Granite City attorney, Charles I. Weitzman, was indicted Thursday by a Madison County grand jury on charges of soliciting conspiracy and communicating with a witness.

The charges evolve from the case of a Granite City man, initially charged with raping a 21-year-old woman, who eventually pleaded guilty to aggravated battery in return for a recommended three-year prison sentence.

Weitzman was the attorney for John L. Ishum, 20, of 2223 Fourteenth St., who was arrested on a warrant in September charging rape in an Aug. 25 home invasion incident.

Also indicted by the grand jury for conspiracy to commit communicating with a witness was Roland Eldred Baker, 38, of Steeleville, Mo., who was arrested there by Granite City detectives on a warrant.

Baker, who is the stepfather of Ishum, appeared before Chief Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark Thursday.

The arraignment was continued for one week to allow Baker an opportunity to secure his own attorney, and he was released on $10,000 recognizance bond. Weitzman was arraigned before Judge Clark on Friday. The attorney pleaded innocent and trial was set for March. He also was released on a $10,000 recognizance bond.

Specific charges against Weitzman were soliciting to commit communicating with a witness, conspiracy to commit communicating with a witness, and communicating with a witness.

Steel plant in GC is purchased

A local group of investors, William Brandt, Walt Aerne, Bob Beidle and Sam Sartin, has completed negotiating for purchase of the Steel Package plant located at 15th & State streets in Granite City.

Steel Package was in the past a division of the National Lead Company and at the peak of its production of paint cans and other containers employed local residents on a three-shift basis.

NL Industries (formerly National Lead) sold this division to the Steel Package Company in 1972 and since that time it has been engaged in the fabrication of various sizes and types of steel containers, most notably five-gallon oil and gasoline containers.

Steel Package stopped production at the plant in October, and all of its production lines are in the process of being dismantled for shipment to Mexico City, Mexico, having been purchased by Zapata Industries. It is anticipated that all production lines will be out of the buildings by March 1.

The new owners plan to take occupancy of the plant on April 2. Their plans are not yet definite as to the use of the site.

Storage and warehousing have been considered, but a spokesman indicates they are primarily interested in seeing a manufacturing operation resumed here to create jobs for this area.

The spokesman said facilities available in the plant, such as rail spurs in and out of the buildings in addition to proximity to major east-west and north-south interstate highways, Lambert International Airport, the Tri-City Port Authority, St. Louis Metropolitan Port Region and Foreign Trade Zone 31, all contribute to make this an attractive industrial site.

"It is possible for a manufacturing facility which falls within Foreign Trade Zone 31, such as this facility, to be designated a subzone within the Foreign Trade Zone and thereby hold goods and materials for other storage

Prosecution is completed

The prosecution in the former Madison County sheriff John Maers, Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department, and fund-raiser Leland Stoller rested its case at 3 p.m. Friday, in the Federal Court at Alton and the defense will begin its presentation at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Cross-examination of former Madison policeman and alderman Ronald Grzywacz occupied most of the day Friday as defense attorneys attempted to counter testimony by Grzywacz that he had served as "a bagman" for Maers at houses of prostitution and towing services and County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnau that Roy O. Guley, administrator of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, has approved personnel of Probation and Court Services of Madison County for state reimbursement.

Payoff procedures outlined, challenged

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer
Nearly three years of collecting payoffs from houses of prostitution, gambling establishments and towing firms—and delivering the payoffs to former Madison County sheriff John Maers—were alleged by former Madison policeman and former alderman Ronald Grzywacz during testimony in federal court in Alton Thursday.

Maers and Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department are on trial on a 26-count federal indictment alleging conspiracy to commit racketeering, mail and wire fraud and subornation of perjury. Fund-raiser Leland Stoller and Lee Stoller Enterprises are named in 21 of the counts relating to use of funds donated to the former Madison County Deputy Sheriffs' Association for charity.

Grzywacz testified under a grant of immunity from federal prosecutors, assuring him that additional charges against him could not be filed for anything on which he testifies, except lying.

He stated he already has been sentenced to 12 years in prison for racketeering and perjury related to a payoff scheme and subsequent attempts to keep federal authorities from uncovering the scheme.

Grzywacz testified that he supported Maers' candidacy for sheriff in 1970 and loaned his car to campaign workers, and that his wife worked at the polls for Maers.

After Maers was elected and took office, Maers approached Grzywacz, and asked him to investigate allegations of payoffs to deputies by houses of prostitution, gambling operations and towing firms, it was related.

Grzywacz said that in the spring of 1971, during a large barbecue at Grzywacz' home, Maers' brother-in-law, Pete Skundrich, approached Grzywacz and said the sheriff would like to speak to him.

The witness testified he met Skundrich and Maers in the alley and they walked to Skundrich's home about a block away where the sheriff asked Grzywacz if he would take Skundrich to the various business establishments supposed to be paying deputies and investigate the allegations.

Grzywacz said Maers said he knew some deputies were taking payoffs, "running wild and taking the money," he recalled Maers saying. "He wanted me to stop it and see where the money was going," Grzywacz said.

He testified a plan was presented in which he and Skundrich would approach the owners of the establishments and inform the owners that Grzywacz and Skundrich represented the sheriff.

They then would say they knew business establishments making payoffs to deputies and would demand the money for the sheriff, instead, they then would attempt to determine if the attorneys had been taking payoffs, he said.

Trial

Grzywacz said he told Maeras he wanted to discuss the plan with his wife and would let Maeras know of his decision. He said he returned to the barbeque and asked Madison Patrolman Edward Golan what he would do if the offer was made to him. An objection from defense attorneys kept Grzywacz from relating Golan's answer. Grzywacz recalled telling Golan, "It's always been known in Madison County that there is a bagman," he testified.

Grzywacz also said he talked to his wife that night and decided he would cooperate with the sheriff. About two days later, he met with Maeras and Skundrich in the county jail, agreed to investigate the payoffs, and said Maeras suggested that he and Skundrich first check Myrene's Steakhouse in Altan, the Club J and OK Cafe near State Park and Mick's Towing in Mitchell.

Maeras allegedly gave him a courtesy card which asked anyone who read it to extend courtesies on behalf of the sheriff to Grzywacz.

Bruce Cook of Belleville, defense attorney for Maeras, showed an identical card which the former sheriff had given H. Carl Bunge, attorney for Cooper, and asked, "Do you have any idea how many cards the sheriff gave out?" Grzywacz responded, "No, sir."

After meeting with the sheriff, Grzywacz and Skundrich went to Trickey's Towing Service in Wood River, but the owners were not there, the witness testified.

The next day, they met with the owners and told them they knew they were paying deputies a kickback of $6 for each towing call, Grzywacz said. "From now on, deputies will be getting $6 per tow. I will be to get it," Grzywacz testified he told the owners.

He said they refused and Bill Pullen, a co-owner, became upset. Skundrich became belligerent to Mr. Pullen and demanded he would start paying me," Grzywacz related, adding that Skundrich then said the sheriff "wouldn't give him any more towing jobs."

Grzywacz testified it appeared as though Pullen was about to punch Skundrich, so Grzywacz grabbed Skundrich and pulled him away and I told him that this was not the right approach."

Grzywacz said he called the sheriff and told him he would not take Skundrich with him anymore, because Skundrich had "the wrong attitude."

He testified that Maeras told him not to take "Pete" with him in the future and that "he would send someone else."

Cooper came to Grzywacz home the next day and asked why Grzywacz had demanded a payoff from Trickey's Towing, the jury was told.

Cooper said Pullen called him and wanted to know why Grzywacz and Skundrich were trying to collect money, Grzywacz said. The witness said he explained the situation to Cooper, who later contacted the sheriff.

Maeras called Grzywacz sometime later and said I could take Cooper and a county car for this work," Grzywacz testified.

He also said, "Maeras asked me what I would want for doing this. I decided I didn't want any money, but I wanted to better myself."

"I told him I wanted to be chief of detectives (in the sheriff's department), if it opened and Maeras said, 'We'll see what develops,'" Grzywacz told the jury.

Cooper then made arrangements to visit S&K Towing, Myrene's Steakhouse and the Club J, Grzywacz said. They first went to Club J, near Fairmount Park Race Track, but the club owners, Walter and Kitty Young, were not there. They then went to the OK Cafe, he testified.

At the OK Cafe, Cooper introduced Grzywacz to an employee named Jackie, described by Grzywacz as "a male dressed in women's clothing."

as Maeras' right-hand man, Grzywacz said.

Grzywacz related he told Roger that they knew about $6 per tow being paid to deputies and said that, in the future the money should just be kept in an envelope and it would be picked up monthly.

"I told him not to pay the deputies; from now on it would be just for the sheriff," Grzywacz said.

They went to Mick's Garage in Mitchell and told the sheriff's deputies they were giving $6 per tow, plus free gasoline, free oil and grease jobs and work on their personal cars.

He said Detective Gary Lee Burns drove him by Myrene's Steakhouse in Altan because "I wanted to see what the place looked like."

He said that Cooper then discussed ways in which to approach Myrene Stewart and decided to take Burns with them when they asked for payoffs.

They went to Myrene's Steakhouse a few nights later and Burns knocked at the back door; a man answered and asked, "What's going on?" adding, "She's really mad."

He testified that Maeras told him, "It's Demos (Nicholas) and his deputies. I don't know anything about it." Grzywacz said Maeras told him the raid occurred while Maeras was out of town.

Grzywacz testified that he and Cooper picked up an envelope containing $50 from the Club J; the envelope had the word "Man" on it in the corner. After that, they picked up an envelope there every week or two, with collections from 1971 through 1973, the witness said.

A week after the two talked to Myrene Stewart, they returned and she counted out the money, put it in an envelope with some kind of magazine advertising on it, put a rubber band around the envelope and paid them with it, he said. Regular pickups in this manner continued until Myrene's Steakhouse was raided in December 1971, Grzywacz testified.

The first time they returned to the OK Cafe after notifying the employee that payments should be made to them, Grzywacz said, he and Cooper were told the owner had approved paying them as long as Cooper was along, since the owner knew Cooper was with the sheriff's department.

Cooper accompanied Grzywacz to the OK Cafe twice and they received $100 per week, Grzywacz alleged.

After that, Grzywacz made the pickups there alone, he testified, adding that he picked up money there several months. The OK Cafe also was closed by a raid.

Grzywacz testified that pickups were made only once a month at the towing firms, since they did not accumulate as much money as the houses of prostitution. He said Cooper was involved in most of the pickups, stating, "Cooper and I almost lived together during this time."

He also testified that Elaine Prince made about two pickups for him from a towing firm operated by Paul Burns. Elaine Prince testified in June at Grzywacz trial that she was his girlfriend at the time.

Grzywacz told the jury that he and Cooper went to Pearl's Horseshoe Lounge, near Club J, one time and Cooper introduced him to "Pearl."

They told her they were going to be like the rest of the taverns on the strip and would have to pay the sheriff if she wanted to have prostitution, Grzywacz said. He related she said she didn't have to pay and would not discuss it.

They went back another time, finding Maeras in the Horseshoe Lounge and Maeras told them, "You don't belong here. This lady is my friend and she doesn't pay anything," Grzywacz alleged.

In 1971, Maeras suggested that Grzywacz check out a kickback from gambling at the Forkeville Lounge, Paul Carroll's Restaurant in Godfrey and the Oasis, the witness testified.

Grzywacz said he and Cooper went to Carroll's Restaurant and Carroll invited them into a back storeroom which had a poker table in the center. "Cooper introduced me and said we knew of payoffs for gambling. He didn't seem like he was interested," Grzywacz testified.

He said they also went to the Forkeville Lounge and told the bartender they had heard of poker games, "which wouldn't last long if they didn't pay the sheriff." He said he couldn't get in touch with the owners and never was able to make arrangements there.

Occasionally, Grzywacz alleged, Cooper would make pickups for the money to me. It would be on the envelope and Cooper would tell me where he had been."

Grzywacz alleged he would put all the money together in an envelope and would indicate on the envelope how much was collected from each establishment.

He testified he delivered the money to Maeras about once a month, mostly at Maeras' apartment in Edwardsville, once in the sheriff's office and once at Pearl's Lounge.

He asked if I wanted anything, I said I didn't want any money. I wanted that chief of detectives job," Grzywacz testified.

He said Charlene "Kitty" Young called him in the early morning hours during January 1973 and said she was being raided by Organized Crime Task Force and Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents.

"She said she didn't understand why she was being raided if she was paying off the sheriff. I told her I would get a hold of the sheriff," Grzywacz told the jury.

When he did get Maeras on the telephone, Maeras told him, "Ron, I didn't even know it was going on," and related that the Task Force had called only the night before and asked for two deputies to aid in a raid, Grzywacz testified.

After the raid, "I became scared of her. I'm collecting money for the sheriff and sheriff's deputies are raiding it. I'm the bad guy. I just got scared of her," Grzywacz testified.

He also told the jury, "I left my (phone) number with these people because if they have any problems, they were to call me."

He said Mrs. Stewart called him on December 19, 1971, to the establishment and he called the sheriff in his office the next morning and asked, "What's going on?" adding, "She's really mad."

He testified that Maeras told him, "It's Demos (Nicholas) and his deputies. I don't know anything about it." Grzywacz said Maeras told him the raid occurred while Maeras was out of town.

Grzywacz stated, "Demos wanted to be chief deputy at this time and there was some friction there."

He testified that he stopped picking up payoffs at Myrene's Steakhouse after that raid. He stated, "I decided I may go for a pickup there and might get a bullet instead. I said to the sheriff, 'If you can't offer protection, then I'm not going back.'" Grzywacz said at the trial.

On several occasions, Grzywacz did favors for "Kitty" Young, such as asking Cooper to check license numbers of cars in the area, because "She was afraid it might be organized crime (task force) or the FBI," he testified.

"One time she asked me if I could do a bullet instead. I said to the sheriff, 'I mentioned it to Cooper and he was transferred,'" Grzywacz told the court.

Questioning of Grzywacz by Cass Weiland of the public integrity section of the U.S. Department of Justice continued after a lunch break Thursday and Weiland probed Grzywacz's acquaintance with Stoller.

Grzywacz said that while he and Cooper were making "the rounds of establishments" in late 1971, Cooper said there were a lot more ways to make money for the sheriff, especially with the deputies' association and Stoller.

Another time, in the county courthouse, Cooper suggested more money "could be made for John" through bail bonds, Grzywacz testified.

He said he only met Stoller on one occasion.

Weiland asked Grzywacz for additional details on alleged deliveries of payoff money to the sheriff. Grzywacz said Cooper went with him once and "my wife was with me a couple of times."

He said that if anyone other than Maeras' wife, Donald, was at Maeras' apartment, the sheriff would come out to Grzywacz's car to accept the payoffs.

Other times, Grzywacz said, he would be allowed in the apartment.

Asked if he ever received any compensation for his work, Grzywacz said he never received any money or if the chief of detectives position that he wanted. "I felt Gary Burns got my position," he testified.

He said the only reward he got was "I was taken to Las Vegas twice. Cooper made the arrangements."

Late in 1971, Grzywacz testified, Cooper, Maeras and he went to Las Vegas. He stated, "I don't remember anything. We gambled, had women, all the food you could eat and all the booze you could drink."

He said he went one more time in early 1972 and recalled Cooper being there.

Weiland asked if he spent any of his own money on either of the trips and Grzywacz answered, "No, sir."

Grzywacz said his downfall began in early 1974, when Internal Revenue Service Agents came to his car wash (O&C Car Wash in Madison) and asked him to get his tax records together for 1970, 1971 and 1972, and meet with them in East St. Louis.

The witness testified he called Cooper after they left. The sheriff ended communications with Grzywacz when he found out Grzywacz was under investigation by the IRS, he added.

He said when he asked Maeras' secretary would say the sheriff was not in and Maeras would not return his calls.

Grzywacz testified he talked to Cooper several times. "We made an agreement, between me and Cooper, that if it ever came down to this, that would be our story that we were conducting an investigation," he said.

He testified, "Cooper said he talked to the sheriff and the sheriff said, 'If we were with the story about the investigation, the IRS would — it would blow over.'"

During the time Grzywacz was being interviewed by the IRS, Cooper would "stop by once a week to build up my morale and to get our stories straight," Grzywacz testified.

Grzywacz introduced into evidence a letter Maeras had signed, authorizing Grzywacz to discuss with the IRS an investigation Grzywacz had conducted for the sheriff during 1971.

Grzywacz identified the letter and said it was written after Grzywacz told investigators he was not free to discuss the investigation without permission from Maeras. "I told Cooper I needed a letter and Cooper said, 'No problem.'"

Cooper brought the letter down, I believe," the jury was told.

I told them about the supposed investigation. I was supposed to be doing," Grzywacz stated and Weiland asked him, "Was that true?" The witness answered, "No, sir."

Grzywacz said he told Cooper that the IRS was trying to tax him for the money taken in payoffs from Club J, and requested help in paying it.

He said he talked to Maeras on the telephone just before Maeras talked to IRS agents. "He wanted to know if it was all right — if I had stuck to my story," Grzywacz testified.

Grzywacz said he repeatedly tried to get Maeras to help pay the taxes on the money taken from Club J. Grzywacz said he protested the tax for one year and one month, during which time interest and penalties were added daily and increased the amount owed to $6,000.

"Early in 1975, I called Maeras at his home on his private number and I said, 'I'm sitting here with two IRS agents. They are demanding money and I want you to help pay since you got the money.'"

"He acted like he didn't know what I was talking about and hung up," Grzywacz testified.

He said he appealed to both Cooper and Skundrich to help him get money from Maeras to pay the taxes, but that Maeras wouldn't help.

One morning, an IRS agent came to Grzywacz's home with a court authorization to take his Cadillac auto and his pickup truck, Grzywacz said, recalling that the agent told him the vehicles would be sold at public auction, the $6,000 in taxes owed would be paid, and any money left over would be refunded to Grzywacz.

He said he told the agent the two vehicles were worth $14,000 and stated, "I begged him for one week to raise the money."

He then removed $3,000 from their savings account and borrowed $3,000 from Gary and Loney Madison to pay the taxes, he testified.

U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman, who is hearing the case, told the jury there were several motions and pieces of evidence which had to be acted on before defense attorneys could begin their cross-examination of Grzywacz, so he dismissed the jury at 2 p.m. Thursday and scheduled the cross-examination for 9 a.m. Friday.

Steve Blakeman, a deputy director of personnel in the office of the secretary of state, and Herman Bowdew, a Springfield attorney, will serve as advisors on the committee.

"Our primary, indeed our lone, goal in appointing Delaney and naming this committee is to create a totally professional law enforcement division," Dixon said.

"Director Delaney and his top officers on the committee will draw from the knowledge and experience represented by Rockford, Suarez, Dye and Toffant.

"We have here represented a mix of the best professional police talent available in Illinois."

Dixon emphasized that Delaney's single instruction has been to build a reduced but thoroughly competent force of police officers in the Investigative Division.

Nelson Hagauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, said.

An SBA spokesman said, "The Small Business Administration will grant low-interest, long-term loans to persons owning rental property which was damaged due to blizzard conditions Dec. 31, Jan. 1, Jan. 12-13, and those starting Jan. 15.

"Furthermore, loans may be allowed to cover certain landscaping damage."

An Internal Revenue Service official added, "Individual home owners and those owning rental property are allowed a casualty loss due to damage which was incurred during the blizzard conditions in Madison County on individual tax returns for the decline in the fair market value of their property."

These losses must be substantiated with bonified estimates of replacement cost of trees, shrubs and lawn damage.

"We have begun a crackdown on auto theft in Illinois that it attracting nationwide attention," Dixon said.

"We intend to make life just as miserable as we can for auto thieves and their colleagues, the chop shop operators. Make no mistake. We do mean business."

The committee is expected to deliver recommendations on selection, general and specialized training, physical fitness and police methods for investigators.

"The purchasers have received inquiries from local manufacturing concerns evidencing interest in the site."

"Further interest has been forthcoming from manufacturing companies on the Eastern seaboard."

Advice on tax return 'helpers'

Shop carefully when picking the person to prepare your tax returns or it could end up costing you more than you bargained for, the Illinois Department of Revenue has advised taxpayers.

"You are legally liable for any errors or oversights on your returns, regardless of who filled it out for you," officials said.

"Any interest or penalties that result are the responsibility of the taxpayer."

"Most tax preparers are honest, competent professionals who perform a valuable service and won't mind if you ask about their qualifications and fee schedule in advance."

However, the department has warned taxpayers to beware of the tax consultant who:

—Promises a large refund or uses his or her address for any refund due.

—Refuse to sign the return as the preparer (the preparer is required to sign along with the filer).

—Requires a percentage of the refund.

—Asks the taxpayer to sign a blank or incomplete return or a return made out in pencil.

Taxpayers who suspect improper activities by a preparer may contact the revenue department's Investigation Division at 312-793-3101.

Information and assistance with state tax returns are available free of charge at any Department of Revenue district office or by phoning the department toll-free at 1-800-252-8972.

MEAT INSPECTION FUNDING SOUGHT
Illinois Agriculture Director John R. Block and other board members of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture met last week with President Jimmy Carter. Of main concern were expansion of agricultural exports and continued federal funding for state meat inspection programs.

Pres. Carter pointed to the recent recognition of the People's Republic of China as evidence of his support of agricultural trade and strengthening markets abroad. However, he did not promise continued funding at the 50 percent level for state meat inspection programs.

Smaller Illinois House sought

The Madison County Republican
Central Committee at its monthly meeting adopted a resolution calling on all citizens to appose efforts being made to reduce the size of the Illinois
House of Representatives.

The change would effectively eliminate minority party representation. County GOP Chairman Dr.
Edward Ragsdale said, adding that the group behind the House reduction is a Chicago-based organization known as the Coalition for Political Honesty.

The Coalition is asking Illinoisans to sign petitions supporting their plans.
"These people are out to change our Constitution, and they are also trying to wipe out minority representation in the state legislature," Ragsdale charged.

"The 1970 Illinois Constitution provides under Article IV for 59 representative districts, comprised of three members each. This concept has worked well for years, and it has insured that no one party has dominated state government," Ragsdale commented.

"The Coalition proposal as outlined by spokesman Pat Quinn would trim the 59 districts for senators, and divide each of those 59 districts in half, producing 118 House districts which would then elect one representative each.

"Illinois is unique with its cumulative voting system. Because of the uneven population distribution in the state, this time-tested system has given each district both majority and minority representation in the General Assembly.

"During primary elections, each major party elects two representative candidates who then appear on the fall ballot. From these four candidates, voters are given the opportunity to send three to Springfield.

"Obviously, if we only have one representative per district, then minority viewpoints will be effectively silenced. This terrible situation would greatly hinder our representative system of government," Ragsdale said.

"By law, the federal government conducts a census every ten years, with the next one slated for 1980. Following completion of the census, members of the Illinois General Assembly are given the responsibility for redrawing state legislative district boundaries.

"The upcoming redistricting could be especially bad for those of us here in Southern Illinois.

"At present, Cook County and Chicago have the first 30 districts. But if Quinn and his followers are successful, then Chicago will have 60 districts and absolute control of the Illinois House," the Madison County
Republican chairman said.

"If this happens, our party could be gerrymandered into oblivion, and any minority viewpoints could be completely disregarded by Chicago politicians.

"The Coalition and Quinn are attempting to circulate petitions asking that their redistricting plan be placed on the 1980 ballot. In order to accomplish the objective, Quinn says his group needs to obtain 250,000-plus signatures.

"The Madison County Republican
Central Committee disagrees with them.

"Rather than trying to make government more responsive to the people, Quinn seems to be trying to shortchange the electorate and insure one-party government in Illinois. We believe all thinking citizens should refrain from becoming involved in this ill-fated movement," Ragsdale concluded.

Address book noted; secretary defends fund-raising procedures

A small address book containing the names of former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras and of Ronald Grzywacz was seized from the home of an admitted operator of a house of prostitution during a raid in the fall of 1973, former sheriff's deputy John Kulasza of Granite City testified Wednesday during a federal trial in Alton.

Maeras, Capt. John Cooper of the sheriff's department and fund-raiser Leiland Stoller of Nashville, Tenn., are on trial for alleged criminal conspiracy, wire and mail fraud and other charges.

Kulasza said he was asked by a Southwestern Illinois Crime Commission task force to join it in a raid on the Club J Tavern on Collinsville Road.

He joined numerous federal, state and county officers in the raid, which lasted several hours and which included searches of the tavern and of the mobile home behind it occupied by Walter and Kitty Young, operators of the club.

During the search of the mobile home, a "little address book" was found and the first two names in the book were those of Grzywacz and Maeras, he testified.

Federal prosecutors have been attempting to show that Grzywacz was "a haggan" for Maeras and was picking up payoff money from the Club J and other establishments and taking it to Maeras.

Kulasza said that, a few days after the raid, he talked to Cooper who wanted to know how the raid went and if anything unusual had been found.

Kulasza said he told Cooper about the address book and testified, "Cooper said he did not think it unusual for Maeras' name to be in there, since he was sheriff."

Under cross-examination by Bruce Cook, attorney for Maeras, the former deputy said the phone number listed after Maeras' name was the number for the main switchboard at the sheriff's department.

Kulasza also testified that he had a county car towed from his home, one-half mile to Mick's Garage on Jan. 1, 1974, and saw the bill for the towing, which he recalled was $35.

Dotty Livingston of Collinsville, who was a secretary for Stoller for five years and who ran the Granite City office of Lee Stoller Enterprises, Inc., for fund-raising activities on behalf of the deputies' association, also testified Wednesday.

She said she was testifying under an agreement with the government, giving her immunity from prosecution in return for her testimony. However, her testimony did not indicate any wrongdoing on her part.

She said she was hired in late 1973 by Stoller and Cooper and started putting together and printing dance program books for a deputies' association dance.

For about two months in 1974, she worked for both the fund-raising firm and the 006 Detective Agency, which was run by Stoller and Cooper, she stated. "I always really considered myself working for Mr. Stoller and Stoller Enterprises," she added.

She said she handled the association's money and prepared daily and weekly report sheets, as well as bank deposits.

Asked why deposit slips showed so little cash and so much in checks, she said most of the cash received during solicitation of business men and homeowners was used to pay for postage and office expenses and to cash the pay checks of out-of-state employees.

The money used for office expenses then was charged to the percentage of the proceeds Stoller was to receive, she added.

Occasionally, advances in salary would be given to employees from the cash, but would be repaid when the employees got their checks, she stated.

Collectors who would drive their autos 10 or 15 miles or more to pick up donations also would be reimbursed for their gasoline from the cash received, she testified.

Under cross-examination by Michael Costello of Springfield, Stoller's attorney, the witness said she knows nothing of any "shoot checks" to persons who did not work for Stoller.

"The checks would arrive by mail from Nashville and I would personally hand the checks to each employee," she testified.

Mick's Garage owner John Fincher testified he gave payoffs to deputies for about 20 years to provide towing calls, but that from 1970 to 1973 he was told to stop paying deputies.

Instead, the money would be picked up once a month, Fincher testified, adding he did not know who told him that or who picked up the money.

Roger Stunkel, operator of a towing service in Edwardsville, testified he made payments for towing privileges for about six months, but he could not recall who received the money, he testified.

GRANITE CITY — So what else is new?

Granite City will again be well-represented at the annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) state large school wrestling tournament in Champaign.

Both Granite City South and GCHS North qualified four wrestlers for the state meet here Saturday. South did it mostly with championships, while North did it via the second and third-place route.

South took over the lead Saturday afternoon from Belleville West and never looked back. The Warriors rolled to their 31st sectional team championship in the 40 years there have been sectional tournaments. South finished with 58.5 points.

Finishing a surprising second was Springfield

Lanphier with 58 points. West had 57, followed by North with 50.5.

Qualifying from South were: Barry Forshee (126-pound champion), Sam Perkins (138-pound champ), Dean Perkins (145-pound champ) and Scott Polson (second at 167 pounds).

North state qualifiers were: Allen Kirgan (second at 126 pounds), Kevin Shemwell (second at 138 pounds), Gerald Miller (3rd at 98 pounds) and Bill Kirgan (3rd at 112 pounds).

The team sending the most wrestlers, however, was not

South. Lanphier will send five to the state meet.

"I was sort of surprised to see Lanphier finish that high and qualify that many," said South Coach Bill "Red" Schmitt. "Another surprise was that Belleville West suffered a total collapse Saturday after beating nearly everybody in sight Friday."

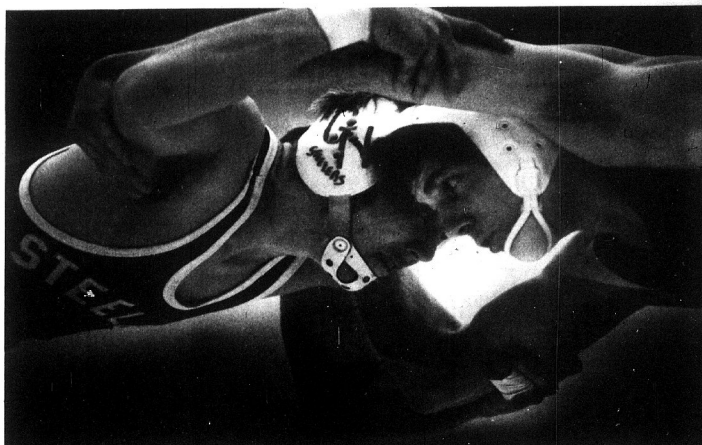

"I'd have to say that going into Saturday's session, I thought West had the best shot at winning the team title."

The championship bouts featured two North vs. South matchups. At 126 pounds, South's Forshee met North's Allen Kirgan for the fifth time this season... and for the fifth time defeated his crosstown rival. This time the score was 9-2. "I think it might be a case of one wrestler facing the other so many times, he gets used to his moves," said Schmitt. "But Forshee was a minor surprise to many of the experts just by the plain fact that he was in the championship bout."

"Most people thought Schnaut from Murphysboro would be the individual champion," said Schmitt. "But Barry handled him pretty easily in the semifinals (16-7)."

TEUTOPOPOLIS — Using a 21-point, fourth-quarter scoring outburst Teutopolis High overcame a seven-point deficit here Saturday and proved to be somewhat of a less-than-hospitable host to visiting Granite City North.

The Wooden Shoes downed North 58-55. Going into the game, North's players might have thought they were about to face a team of giant Red-wins instead of a high school basketball team. Three players over 6'6" dotted the "T-Town" roster.

In the end, it was that height advantage that was a major factor in beating the Steelers.

"We couldn't fight their height down the stretch," said North Coach Bill Ohlendorf. "They lobbed the ball inside over our heads and that was that."

North had as many chances to take the lead back as there were farmers in the tiny Teutopolis gym. Scoring ace Dennis Page missed three four-footers from the side in the last two minutes missed the front end of a one-and-one situation late in the game... center Tom Greco missed two free throws with 10 seconds left (and the score 55-53) in favor of Teutopolis. But the game wasn't won or lost on those plays.

"If those guys had missed those shots in the middle of the game, nobody'd remembered them," said Ohlendorf. "Heck, we had as many chances to blow them out early as we did to beat them late."

Ohlendorf blamed much of the comeback of Teutopolis on his team going to sleep on offense.

North began the game as if it were going to show the people of the small community exactly where and how basketball is played in Illinois. With Page scoring the first 22 points, North held a slim 12-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, then opened it up to as many as 10 (24-14) before they went into a four-corner stall with about two minutes remaining in the second quarter.

The stall did just that... stalled the Steelers. The Wooden Shoes ripped off 11 straight points in those two minutes to take a 25-24 halftime lead. Why the stall? "We were trying to draw their big men out from under the basket and spread them out a little," said Ohlendorf.

As the second half began, the Steelers scrapped their stall tactics in favor of the more open offense they had employed earlier. It worked. North began causing Teutopolis turnovers, and found some scoring punch from Page and Mike Robertson to open a relatively wide lead of 40-31 midway through the third quarter. "We were executing well at that point," said Ohlendorf. "We were confusing their big men and were putting the ball in the hole."

Then North again went to the stall. Again it backfired. Leading by five (44-39) going into the fourth quarter, North soon found itself fighting off a T-Town charge that would eventually take over the lead.

The last time North had a lead was 44-41 with about three minutes left. That's when the big men from Teutopolis went to work. North travels to Belleville West Friday night and plays at home Saturday (Feb. 24) against Hillsboro. An addition to the Steelers' late-season schedule is that of a road game Tuesday (Feb. 27) at Edwardsville. It is a make up of the snowed-out contest of Jan. 13.

Vikes work overtime for upset of Madison

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

HIGHLAND — Madison High's basketball game against St. Paul-Highland Saturday stirred up the calm of Metro-East area pool makers.

Attention on the east side of the river was focused on the game that pitted what most people considered the number one and two small high school basketball teams in the area against each other.

The advanced billing was justified, as St. Paul won at the buzzer of the overtime period, 73-71.

So now, after spending most of the season in the number one spot, Madison might be replaced. St. Paul's record is now 18-4, and Madison is 10-4.

St. Paul's coach Rick Moss was unprepared to claim the top spot for his team.

"People were kind of wondering if St. Paul was for real," he said. "They say, 'You beat the weak guys, but you can't win when it counts.' I think we settled that tonight."

"Madison is still good. One of us in number one, and the other is number two. That really doesn't matter so much right now. What counts is who's number one at the end of the season," said Moss.

One of the big reasons St. Paul has done so well this season has been the play of Dennis Luber, the Vikings' center. Luber leads his team and the entire St. Louis area in scoring, averaging nearly 30 points per game.

So, when St. Paul lost the services of Luber with 2:22 left in the fourth quarter when he was called for his fifth foul, it's outlook was considerably dampened.

The Vikings knew the additional burden would fall on the rest of the team. "When Luber fouled out I just told them, here's your chance to show what you're made of," said Moss.

The Vikings showed they were made of something pretty resilient. The Vikings led the Vikings 46-42 going into the critical fourth period. And when Luber left the game Madison held a 50-46 lead.

St. Paul came back to tie the score at 61 with 2:22 left on the clock. The free throws made by St. Paul's Randy Moss, 12 in all for the period, held the Vikings in the game.

The score was tied again at 63-63. Then St. Paul, on a pair of free throws by both Moss and Luke Harris, jumped to a 67-63 lead.

Madison's Carlyn Jackson scored to bring the Trojans within two and set up the regulation ending play. When St. Paul inbounded the ball to Moss, Madison's Kenny Stanley slapped the ball from his hands. The ensuing scramble resulted in a jump ball.

The Trojans had a chance

Stanley controlled the tip, sending the ball to Jackson, who passed to Trojan Eric Stanley. Stanley was fouled when attempting to shoot, with 14 seconds showing on the clock. Despite the roar of the Highland crowd, Stanley made both free throws, tying the score at 67-67, and sending the game into overtime.

Madison jumped to a four point lead, and looked, with half the period gone, to be heading to victory. But again St. Paul came roaring back.

This time again, the free throw shooting of Moss was responsible. His first two came with 1:13 left, making the score 71-69. Then, with 51 seconds left, the Vikings' Roger Kless tied the score with two more free throws awarded him as a result of a foul by the Trojan's Jackson.

The Trojans had a chance to retake the lead when Eric Stanley went to the line, but both of his shots bounced wide, and the Vikings controlled the ball.

St. Paul brought the ball down and began a stalling game, waiting for time for one last shot. The ball was finally worked into the Vikings' Tim Robbins, whose shot at the buzzer gave St. Paul the victory.

In the end, it was Madison's persistent foul trouble that did it in. The Trojans committed 25 personal fouls in all, 11 of which came in the crucial fourth period.

"I didn't think we played too well," said Madison coach Larry Graham. "We kept wasting a lot of fouls. But I'd like to make it clear that I thought one of the refs called it way too close. I

Heard from Stanley? The Warriors have

GRANITE CITY — It was Granite City South's superb defense against Madison's smooth-as-silk explosive offense here Thursday night at Memorial Gym.

Basketball, Madison's claim to fame. One of the community's few chances to thumb its nose at the "big neighbor" next door, Granite City.

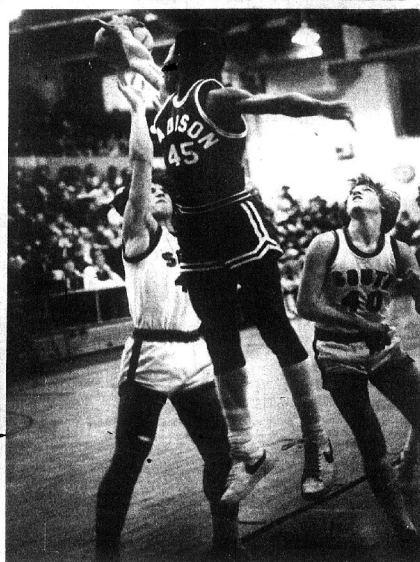

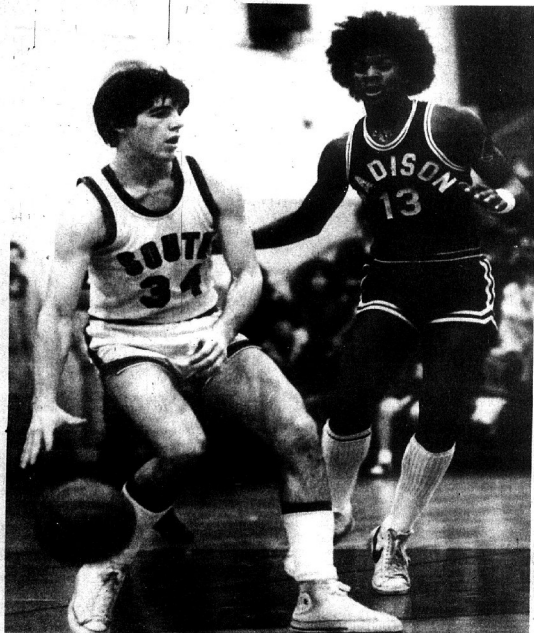

It didn't come easily. South played the Trojans even . . . except for the third quarter. "We didn't play any defense at all in the third quarter," said South's Jeff Parker.

In the end, it was the third quarter which would spell doom for South's Warriors.

Memorial Gym was a noisy place. The fans were about split evenly as to their loyalty. Madison fans on one side . . . South on the other.

For Madison, all-state guard James Heard was scoring 20 points . . . inside. His teammates Eric and Kenny Stanley were feeding him with passes when not scoring themselves.

Defense against offense . . . this time the offense won.

Venice downs Central to get 14th victory

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

VENICE — It was the kind of situation Saturday that makes a basketball coach mop his brow and reach for the aspirin bottle.

The team was the Venice Red Devils. The opponents were St. Louis Central's Redwings, and the coach was Venice's Ken Perkins.

The Red Devils were in the precarious position at the end of the third quarter of having two players with four fouls each, and two more with three each. Perkins shuffled players back and forth throughout the fourth period, and although two players left the game with five fouls, Venice emerged with an 82-74 victory.

"We were shifting people around a lot," said Perkins. "It was a pretty tight spot. It wouldn't have been so bad if the fouls had been on my guards, but we were hurt by our big guys inside."

As a consequence to the foul trouble, Perkins was forced to play many of his players in unfamiliar positions. The result was some cautious play and inopportune mistakes by Venice.

Going into the fourth period, the Red Devils had built a 64-53 lead. But Venice's Reggie Mathis, who had scored 10 points in the first three quarters, and Donald Gardner, who had scored nine, each had four fouls.

Even after Gardner left with his fifth foul at 5:42, Venice managed to get the points when they needed them. Jones scored on drives inside and picked the Devils up when Central was threatening. "Darryl did a real good job," said Perkins. "He penetrated really well."

Venice led the game throughout. Paced by the scoring of Mathis, Gardner and James Mathis, the Red Devils jumped to an early lead and held it. The score at the end of the first half was 47-34.

The Redwings were sloppy and their turn-overs were costly. They gave the ball away 23 times in the first half.

This was understandable, though, because the Redwings haven't seen any game action for about six weeks. The layoff is the result of the St. Louis teachers strike, which still isn't resolved.

Central's coach, James Gant, explained his team's position in the strike saying, "The coaches on the west side agreed to play in the regionals. We knew we'd probably be beat here, but we came anyway to get the game experience."

SAM PERKINS (top) of GCHS South is in complete control here during action in the South Class AA Sectional. Perkins was the 138 pound champion and will lead three other Warriors to the state finals next Friday and Saturday at the Assembly Hall in Champaign. South also won the team title at the Sectional for the 31st time in the 40 years of competition.

Briggs is state champion

CHAMPAIGN — Harry Briggs III of Granite City won the state championship here Saturday in the annual Elmer Hoop Shoot contest held at Champaign Centennial High School.

Briggs' competing in the nine-year old age group, finished with 23 of 25 free throw attempts to edge Greg Parker of Olney by one shot.

Each contestant shot 10 free throws, then shot another 15. Parker had already finished his 25 shots, making 22 of 25, when Briggs stepped to the line for his last 15 attempts.

Having made nine of ten the first turn, Briggs started out his second series by missing the first one. He then reeled off 14 straight to claim the championship.

Briggs will advance to the Regional Tournament March 2 and 3 at Iowa City, Iowa. Granite City's other contestant, 15-year old Kathy Teitloff, finished sixth in the state in her age group.

North Coach Walt Whitaker said he felt his team had a shot at finishing in the top three going into the meet. "With a break here or there or an extra pin along the way, we might have been right up there with South challenging for the lead."

The other North-South championship bout occurred at the 138-pound weight division where there was another axe to grind. Sam Perkins of South avenged his loss last week in the District championship bout by beating North's Kevin Shemwell 8-2. "Sam tied Kevin up on top and wouldn't let him get loose to work," said Whitaker. "He didn't do that last time."

GC girls sweep two

GRANITE CITY — Both Granite City High School girls basketball teams turned in a winning performance Thursday.

GCHS North's Steelettes downed Roxana 55-46, while South Warriors beat Wood River 45-40.

In North's game, the Steelettes exploded for 20 second quarter points which proved to tell the tale. North hung on for the win. Kathy Waldo led the way for North, pumping in 14 points. But teammate Tammy Hanfelder wasn't far behind. She had 13 points.

At Wood River, the Warriors of South were led by Chris Boyd's 24 points in the victory over the Oilers. South never trailed in the game, but held a five to 10 point lead most of the way.

Besides Boyd's 24 points, the Warriors' leading scorer was Susan Bell with nine, and Laura Gabriel with six.

South is now 7-1 on the season.

South defense can't match Trojans' speed

Madison

Don't want it to seem like I'm crying. After all, if we would have put one more shot in the hole we would have won."

In the first half Madison led the Vikings by about six points throughout. The Vikings were led by the steady play of Luber and Deterring. "We didn't do that, but I thought we were still in the game."

In that first half, South employed a sticky defense on the Trojans, and practically denied them the baseline.

"We were playing good defense in sports," said Deterring. "We caused them a few mental errors in the first half, but they seemed to recover in the second half."

After leading 12-11 after the first quarter, Madison fell behind early in the second but came back and took a five-point lead (30-25) at halftime.

The result? A 77-65 victory for Madison High's basketball team over Granite City South.

The loss dipped South to 14-7 while Madison was 19-3 going into Saturday's game at St. Paul of Highland (see page 9).

But the first quarter was enough to put the casual observer to sleep. Not that South was doing anything great on defense. Not that Madison was slowing down its game plan. It was just that neither team could manage to get its act in gear.

"The name of the game is getting off to a good start," said South Coach Don same South team which had dominated the baseline play in the first half? "It wasn't that we were doing anything different," said Deterring. "I think it was their change in personnel."

What it all amounted to was a 54-41 lead by the Trojans after the third period. South managed to close the gap to no closer than eight points (66-58) the rest of the way. Madison actually was ahead by as many as 19 points at two occasions in the fourth quarter.

In the end, South's Deterring felt the entire situation boiled down to one thing... speed. "Damn, they're quick," he said. "We were able to counteract it a bit early, but shoot, they can bring so many people off the bench and you can't tell any difference in the way they play."

About the switch of Heard from outside to inside play, Deterring said, "He's super kid. But I think that inside is until he was sent to the bench. He was visibly upset, burying his face in a towel.

"When Luber goes out, in a way it's good," said Coach Moss. "It puts the pressure on the others to do well. Tonight they really came through. I'm really pleased."

Luber played only about half of the fourth period,

Miss Lux marries Michael Seibold

In a double-ring ceremony performed at 7 p.m. Nov. 25 at St. John United Church of Christ, Miss Mary Jo Lux, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Lux, 2803 Michigan Ave., was married to Michael Edwin Seibold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Seibold, 3209 Fehling Rd.

The Rev. William Crystal and the Rev. Sheldon Doyle officiated at the candlelight ceremony. Mrs. Lynette Hart was soloist, and she was accompanied on the organ by Allen Milster. She sang, "Because," "Sunrise, Sunset," "The Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a traditional gown of white organza. It was designed with a Queen Anne neckline, and a fitted bodice of ruffled lace. The skirt and train were accented with lace motifs and seed pearls.

The bride's waist-length veil of Alencon lace was held in place by a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and greenery.

Miss Patty Bade served as maid of honor, and Mrs. Carol Jones, the groom's sister, Miss Cathy Hinner and Mrs. Alexis Lux served as bridesmaids. They wore identical-style gowns of Qiana with a blouson bodice and split sleeves. They held bouquets of fall flowers.

Attending the groom as best man was Ken Huebner; Larry Seibold, the groom's brother, Greg Nunn and Phil Bennett, served as groomsmen. Warren Jones, Steve Holtorf, Jim Kozay and Geoff Lux, the bride's cousin, were ushers.

Bay View Club enrolls member

The Junior Bay View Reading club met last week at the home of Peggy Koerper, with June Cuchna welcomed as a new member. Members of the club answered roll call with items on art or music.

The program for the evening was given by Alice Hunsinger. It was a review of the book Celia Garth, by Givon Bristow. Celia lived in Charleston, S.C. during the American Revolution. It is a story about a girl who wanted things to happen to her. The people, the places, and the events are as vivid as if you saw them yesterday, according to a club spokesman.

The hostess used a Valentine theme for refreshments. She was assisted in serving by her daughter, Mary. Those attending were, Mesdames Alice Hunsinger, Mildred Jungels, Peggy Koerper, Marguerite Lexow, Velma Neumann, Marge O'Neill, and Jane Cuchna. The March meeting will be at the home of Margaret Lexow, with Ann Little giving the review.

"Those who break new ground in research, speculation, and creativity of the imagination do so not only because they take joy in the inherent pleasures of these pursuits, but in the joy of sharing what they've found with whom they come in contact," Dr. Shaw said. "These achievements must be open to scrutiny from the common person as well as from fellow scholars, he said in analyzing education as a "reciprocal process of teaching and learning."

GC Business Women to hear hospice speaker

Donna M. Corr of St. Louis, an authority on the hospice concept of home care and medical treatment for terminally ill patients, will address the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at its dinner meeting Wednesday night.

Reservations for the 6:30 p.m. dinner at Charlie's Restaurant will be accepted through today by calling Beverly Stone, at 931-0250, or Louise Smith, at 877-2468.

Club members also will observe International Women's Week, being celebrated through Saturday, with a special candlelighting ceremony.

Miss Corr has a background of professional intensive care nursing, starting in 1959. She holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Saint John College in Cleveland, Ohio, and has worked as a nurse at Cleveland Clinic Hospital, Crite VA Hospital and Wade Park VA Hospital, all in Cleveland, John Cochran Veterans Hospital and Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, and Alton Memorial Hospital.

Last summer, Miss Corr was involved in a work-study program at St. Luke's Hospice in Sheffield, England and also visited four other British Hospice units.

She made a presentation in Tel Aviv, Israel, in January 1978, entitled "A Patient Refuses Treatment," while attending the International Symposium on the Dying Human.

A question and answer period will follow Miss Corr's presentation, the chairman said.

Miss Corr made a comprehensive presentation last Dec. 11 to Hospice of Madison County at St. Elizabeth Medical Center here. The unit has since prepared a legal constitution and is expected to file the document this week with the state of Illinois.

Securing funds to get the program under way was the main topic of discussion at a meeting of the county hospice organization last week at the local hospital.

Under the hospice program, terminally ill people and their families have 24 hours a day access to trained professional and lay volunteers.

The concept is to help the terminally ill patient live out his remaining months at home, near this family, under the guidance of a medical program that will make him as comfortable as possible.

While the program also provides for the inpatient care of such patients in institutional quarters with homelike surroundings, the Hospice of Madison County basically will be directed toward outpatient care.

Dr. Shabir Safdar, cancer specialist on the staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and a professor at Washington University, St. Louis, is spearheading the local effort to set up the hospice program here.

Mrs. Betty Jo Safdar, wife of the physician, said freedom from pain is an important part of the hospice idea, noting the "hospice mixture" is one of the reasons that the program works.

She said the mixture given terminally ill people differs from those mixtures used in European hospice programs.

The one given patients here, made up of morphine, and an anti-depressant, (when needed), is flavored with cherry.

"The mixture is given every three-and-a-half to four hours," she said, "whether the patient has felt the return of pain or not."

"It is designed, under a doctor's specifications, to keep the patient alert as well as without pain. The mixture is given in this manner so that the patient does not have to worry about pain and can concentrate on living out his life."

The mixture is one of the inexpensive parts of the program, according to Mrs. Safdar. "It can be made up for between $9 and $14 a pint. That usually lasts for about two weeks," she said.

"That is one of the nice things about Hospice program. We will be able to ask for freedom from pain for about $1 a day."

The program will not be totally self supporting because not all patients will have the ability to pay. There will be many services offered and there are hopes that some of the costs will be defrayed by private grants and donations.

DONNA M. CORR

Mr. Safdar said that while some state and federal funds might be available later on, there wasn't much chance for any in the immediate future.

"The government grants are geared more to hospice programs already in operation," she said, "some of the programs that are receiving help have been around for five years and more."

Plans for training the volunteers also came under discussion last week, as well as the plans for recruiting people both in and out of the professions to help. It was pointed out that the group is taking names at this time of would-be volunteers.

Anyone interested in learning more about Hospice of Madison County or wishing to add their name to the list of volunteers is being asked to contact Betty Slate at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 798-3109, or attend the Granite City BPW Club dinner Wednesday night.

Navy Mothers hear welfare report

Mrs. Margaret Minzes, welfare chairman for the Quad-City Navy Mothers Club, Chapter 850, announced a total of $824.60 was expended to aid area servicemen, veterans hospitals and needy families from May 30 to Dec. 30 of 1978.

She submitted her report at a chapter meeting held last week at the VFW Hall, conducted by Commander Stella Miller.

It was announced that the club will call and make a pledge of $25 to the Variety Club Telethon and a donation of $50 will also be given to a needy family for groceries.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Minzes, and Irma Manning. The next meeting will be March 8, at the VFW.

Lewis and Clark proposed as name of Interstate 70

The Illinois House of Representatives has approved a resolution calling for Interstate Highway 70 in Illinois to be designated the "Lewis and Clark Memorial Highway." The proposal makes sense and deserves to be approved and implemented.

The resolution was introduced in the House by State Rep. Everett G. Steele (R-Glen Carbon) and now goes to the Senate for consideration in that chamber. State Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) is the Senate sponsor of the resolution.

If approved by the Senate, the resolution would call on the Illinois Department of Transportation to designate that portion of I-70 lying in Illinois as the "Lewis and Clark Memorial Highway." Similar designations have previously been given to Interstate 55 (Stevenson Freeway) and Interstate 80 from Danville to Rock Island (Columbus Memorial Highway). The special designation is reflected in rest stops, highway markers and other aspects that identify the highway.

"Illinois has nearly been overlooked for the important role it played as the site for the trail and preparation for the launching of the Lewis and Clark expedition," Rep. Steele comments. "Historians have since called the trek the most important land expedition of modern times."

The designation of Interstate 70 in Illinois as the Lewis and Clark Memorial Highway can bring proper recognition to the state as the point from which the historic band of explorers departed. Seventy million people travel I-70 in Illinois each year. This designation may encourage greater tourism and visitation to the Lewis and Clark State Park, a few miles north of the Interstate, marking the beginning of the historic journey.

Sen. Vadalabene notes that 1797 marks the 175th anniversary of the Lewis and Clark expedition. "It is entirely appropriate that we mark that occasion and provide special prominence to Illinois' role in the expedition by naming I-70. It is especially appropriate, since the highway serves our region of the state that knew Lewis and Clark and the members of their expedition as they prepared for exploration of unknown territories."

The Lewis and Clark journey is regarded as having opened the western United States to expansion and development. The pioneer exploration was commissioned by the U.S. government to explore the vast regions of the Mississippi River and extended to the Pacific Ocean.

Representatives Jim Reilly, Sam Wolf and Jim McPike were co-sponsors of the resolution in the House.

News notes

There is a possibility of Hessian influenza spreading to this metropolitan area this week.

Army recruiters topped their goal in Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri in 1978 but Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps recruiting fell short. Nationally, quota results were: Air Force 95 percent, Army 98, Marines 86 and Navy, 85 percent.

With the Federal Communications Commission approving 24-hour broadcast signals by WGNM-AM, instead of the present 6 a.m. until sundown, the change is tentatively set for May or June. Sale by Charles "Chuck" Norman of WGNM-FM to Doubleday for $2 million may become final in mid-May.

William Hodge, 1941 Rhodes St., Madison, was robbed of $20 by an armed man on the parking area at the Illinois Employment Services office, 1820 Cleveland Blvd., at 9:15 a.m. Thursday.

Louisa Pugh was walking across the lot to the office when a man stopped him and asked if he could borrow $1. Told by Hodge that he had no money, the man then produced a blue steel revolver and demanded his wallet.

The robber took $20 cash from the wallet and handed it back to Hodge, telling him to walk down the alley and not look back. The robber had shoulder-length brown hair, was about 23 years old, six feet, two inches tall and heavily built.

The employee responded, "Are you kidding?" and the robber answered, "No, I'm not kidding." She asked him if he wanted the money put in something and he told her no.

He then said he did not want the change and demanded only the bills. After receiving the money, the robber said, "Just stand there for five minutes. I can see you down the road." He walked south and then toward Myrtle Avenue, the witness testified.

Police followed fresh footprints in the snow, but lost track of them a short distance from the shop.

Rites held for Mrs. Angle

Survivors include four sons, Ellis Frank Angle and Gerald Angle, all of Granite City, and Ronald Angle of Sturtevant; six daughters, Arline White, Mrs. Shirley Willis and Mrs. Joan Sturtevant, all of Granite City; Mrs. Darlene Dietl, Edwardsville, and Mrs. Gladys Flowers, McEwen, Ill.; six grandchildren and many great-grandchildren.

Burial was at St. John Cemetery, here.

Mathias named to agency board

Carl E. Mathias, service area manager for Illinois Power Co., has been named to a five-year term on the Bi-State Development Agency board of commissioners.

The appointment was announced Friday by Gov. James R. Thompson.

Mathias replaces Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler on the board, which consists of five Illinois residents and five Missouri residents. The appointment requires confirmation by the Illinois Senate. It is an unpaid position.

Active in community organizations, Mathias has served as president of the Granite City Rotary, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the Mound Boy Scout Council.

Schenk defends fuel aid plans

Edward P. Schenk, executive director, Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, told the Press-Record Friday, "In a recent article in the unreasonably exaggerated required by EOC for the Emergency Energy Assistance Program was criticized by the IRS."

"This unreasonable paperwork is a single sheet written verification of the cost of the program, and the way it is administered elsewhere."

Related problems are said to be numerous, including the cost of extensive and needless paper work, in the opinion of the natural gas and electricity utility.

show the federal government that the money given to EOC was spent for the purpose intended by the Congress.

"It seems only reasonable that taxpayers like Illinois should be interested in supporting the wise use of tax money as well as sound accounting procedures," Schenk concluded.

Carl E. Mathias, IP service area manager, has said Schenk is going far beyond the requirements of the program, and the way it is administered elsewhere.

Asked if he hoped his testimony would result in a lesser sentence, Grzywacz said, "I would hope for a lot of things."

Cook referred to transcripts and reports of Grzywacz's testimony and statements of the IRS and grand jury which the attorney contended were lies.

Grzywacz said that he, Cooper and Maerz agreed on "a story" that Grzywacz was picking up payoffs as part of an investigation to determine if dealers were being paid off, and the witness testified, "I was told to lie. What else could I do?"

He also said, "I tried to stay as close to what Mr. Cooper and Maerz wanted as I could."

Cook objected to a reference by Grzywacz that the attorney had mentioned an investigation and Cook testified that he had not.

The employee responded, "Are you kidding?" and the robber answered, "No, I'm not kidding." She asked him if he wanted the money put in something and he told her no.

He then said he did not want the change and demanded only the bills. After receiving the money, the robber said, "Just stand there for five minutes. I can see you down the road." He walked south and then toward Myrtle Avenue, the witness testified.

and as chairman of the United Fund campaign. He also served on the City Port Authority Board, Granite City Trust and Savings Bank board, Junior Achievement regional board and committees of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, the Tri-Cities Chamber and Illinois State Chamber, with emphasis on industrial development.

In December 1978, Mathias was among those named to an ad hoc committee to review and make recommendations concerning Bi-State transit financing.

Mathias has been with Illinois Power Co. since 1942 and moved to this area in 1943. He and his wife, Betty, reside at 34 Oaklawn Drive.

Mathias said he hopes to help achieve improvements in bus system operations and transit to the region. He is conferring with Mayor Schuler on this and other Bi-State topics.

It is uncertain whether his appointment will affect the proposed selection of St. Louis Streets Director William J. Wilson as Bi-State executive director. The post requires the support of three Missourians and three Illinoisans on the ten-member agency board.

Grzywacz, you are deliberately changing your testimony to match Kitty Young's."

Returning to the issue of whether Grzywacz lied in his testimony Thursday when he said he met with "John" the morning after the Dec. 1971, raid on Myrene's Steakhouse in Alton, Cook asked Grzywacz on Friday if he knew what Clemons had been caught on the same mistle or lie.

Grzywacz stated, "I did not know about his testimony." Grzywacz said that on the morning after the raid at Myrene's, he went to Maerz's office, asked the sheriff's secretary if "John" was in and then met with John Cooper.

Asked if his testimony Thursday did not mean he met with "John" Maerz, Grzywacz answered, "I knew where he was. John Cooper told me he was out of town."

Cook disagreed with the statement, accused Grzywacz of perjury, and stated, "We're talking now about how you lied yesterday on the witness stand." Cook also referred to Clemons and said, "You and your buddy better get together on this."

The defense attorney for Maerz asked Grzywacz how he could afford to drive Cadillacs, Buicks, Lincoln IV automobiles and a motor home, and purchase a summer cottage in the Ozarks, all on an income of $10,972, and said, "You are on the Grzywacz income tax form for 1972."

Grzywacz explained that he had traded "big" cars each three years since he was 19 years old and only paid about $3,000 on the summer cottage.

Cook also referred to testimony that Maerz had suggested that Grzywacz check the Oasis for prostitution or gambling, and said the Oasis is in St. Clair County.

Grzywacz responded that there are two Oasis businesses in this area, one in St. Clair County near the Club J, and the other near Godfrey. He said he was supposed to check the Oasis in Godfrey, but never had the time.

Cook said that Grzywacz had told a grand jury he believed his pickups of money from houses of prostitution lasted only eight to nine months and that Thursday night they lasted from early 1971 until January 1973.

"That's almost three times more," Cook said, "than what you testified that he had made a mistake when he testified before the grand jury."

Cook accused Grzywacz of being "a sociopath," one who "cannot tell when he is lying and when he is telling the truth," Grzywacz denied the allegation, saying he now is telling the truth.

Cook asked, "You will do anything to stay out of jail, won't you?" and Grzywacz answered, "No sir. If I have to go, I'm going."

He adds that theoretical discussions of taxes being levied assume that in every instance property must reflect the latest neighboring sales price, regardless of whether the assessed property actually is valued below the neighbors' price might suggest it is worth.

Opponents of Barton say a review of recent error rates indicates it is clear that the Board of Review and its administrator, Barton, have been extremely generous to persons and firms friendly to the dominant political organization in Madison County.

Mathias replaces Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler on the board, which consists of five Illinois residents and five Missouri residents. The appointment requires confirmation by the Illinois Senate. It is an unpaid position.

Active in community organizations, Mathias has served as president of the Granite City Rotary, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the Mound Boy Scout Council.

Asked if he hoped his testimony would result in a lesser sentence, Grzywacz said, "I would hope for a lot of things."

Cook referred to transcripts and reports of Grzywacz's testimony and statements of the IRS and grand jury which the attorney contended were lies.

Grzywacz said that he, Cooper and Maerz agreed on "a story" that Grzywacz was picking up payoffs as part of an investigation to determine if dealers were being paid off, and the witness testified, "I was told to lie. What else could I do?"

He also said, "I tried to stay as close to what Mr. Cooper and Maerz wanted as I could."

Cook objected to a reference by Grzywacz that the attorney had mentioned an investigation and Cook testified that he had not.

The employee responded, "Are you kidding?" and the robber answered, "No, I'm not kidding." She asked him if he wanted the money put in something and he told her no.

He then said he did not want the change and demanded only the bills. After receiving the money, the robber said, "Just stand there for five minutes. I can see you down the road." He walked south and then toward Myrtle Avenue, the witness testified.

Police followed fresh footprints in the snow, but lost track of them a short distance from the shop.

The Ukraine, a gift from John

The gifted child is different from most. He or she is bright and requires new challenges all the time. Some of Granite City's gifted youngsters are getting just that in the mode of dance and the person of John Wasyuka.

The dance is Ukrainian folk and the teacher is a 68-year-old first-generation American who has never seen the Ukraine.

He seeks to preserve the customs and the dance taught to him by his parents, who came to this country in 1906 from the Russian state.

When Mrs. Merna Musterman, coordinator of the gifted program, asked him to teach his dances to the youngsters, he readily agreed.

The kids are interested, and Wasyuka has much to show them and much to tell of his parents' homeland. The teacher is delighted to have so willing a class and instructs the youngsters with the vigor of a much younger man.

Wasyuka has been teaching the dances of the Ukraine for a long time.

He is one of the original members of the Ukrainian dance group which danced at the Odeon Theater in November 1932. The group also participated in the first folk festival in 1934.

At that time, he had 32 children dancing under his direction. Over the years, Wasyuka has taught thousands of youngsters and had many of them dance with him at performances all over the country.

Now, at 68, he is still active in promoting the heritage and culture of the Ukraine. Mrs. Musterman found the energetic senior citizen through RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), which is under the direction of Marge Hall.

Mrs. Musterman is enthusiastic about the talented teacher she found. "He is a remarkable man," she said. "He has so much to offer the kids, all kids, not just the gifted. He had stories to tell that make the Ukraine come alive for the youngsters."

Wasyuka teaches the young ones with ease. As he shows them a "one, two, three," he talks about the dance. He tells them of the origins of each step so as they learn it and so they know why it has been done the same way for centuries.

The kids are from schools all over the Granite City district. They come together at Nameoki School on Fridays. The course originally was to go on for only six consecutive Fridays, but with all the snow and ice the group has met on a weather-permitting basis.

The teacher's granddaughter, Michelle McAmish, helps Wasyuka with the large group of gifted youngsters. The young girl, already an accomplished dancer, enjoys dancing with her grandfather.

They make quite a pair when they get together to show the class what the dance looks like when all of the steps are put together.

Wasyuka will tell you that the main reason he dances is that it is good for him — it keeps the heart in good shape.

But when you watch him, whether he is showing a little one a step or whirling with his granddaughter, you know that exercise is not the reason for the dance.

Oh, no, Wasyuka dances for the sheer joy of it. When he dances, he is in his beloved Ukraine.

When he teaches, he takes Mrs. Musterman's gifted ones along with him — to that far-away place — and all are enriched by the experience.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT and little Jodi Williams (above) is working hard to do the step as well as her teacher.

LEARNING UKRAINIAN DANCE steps is fun, according to the youngsters. Above is a group practicing one of the more vigorous moves used in some of the dances of the Ukraine.

Spending—big issue in state

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

The battle lines are forming early over what will undoubtedly be the biggest single issue of the 1979 legislative session — money. It all boils down to how much of the green stuff there is going to be and who's going to get it.

Spice that with the public demand and expectation of a lid on taxes and government spending and you have a brew unmatched since Shakespeare's witches stirred their pot.

The opening salvo has been fired with Gov. James R. Thompson telling the state's education people that there is little chance they will get all the money they have asked for.

The education people have fired back, arguing that they cannot get by with less than the state money asked by the state Board of Education, which looks after the secondary and high schools, and the state Board of Higher Education, which is responsible for the state colleges and universities.

Thompson is proposing a budget of $3.5 billion for education in general.

But this falls $30 million short of what has been asked for the secondary and high schools and $30 million less than sought for colleges and universities. The sprawling University of Illinois, which operates under a separate board, is yet to be heard from.

The educators have long had powerful friends in the legislature and there is little question but that they will try to persuade the lawmakers to provide more money than the governor is recommending.

The battle over education funding could be one of the most intensive and prolonged of the session.

Local school districts all over the state are slipping to the fiscal edge in increasing numbers.

Uncertainty over further collection of the corporate personal property tax — and fierce resistance to any further rise in the local property tax — is driving many a once financially sound district to the wall.

Even without the hoped-for amount of state aid, many schools are resigned to a bitter fall marked by strikes by increasingly militant teachers unions and probably reduction or abolishment of many programs long taken for granted.

Thompson, however, appears firm in his hold-the line approach to the state budget, and with the tax revolt fever still running high it could be risky for the Democratic-controlled legislature to fight him on education financing, which already consumes about a third of the Illinois budget.

There is as yet no clear sign that the tax revolt of 1978 has run its course, although education, cities and labor groups profess to see some indication that it has.

Nevertheless, the prevailing view beneath the Statehouse Dome is that the taxpayers' back home are not only still insisting on a hold-the-line policy on state spending and taxes, but are anticipating some concrete tax relief as well.

There are numerous bills already in the legislative hopper instead of the tax relief that reflect this feeling.

One, for instance, would reduce the assessed valuation of property from the present 33 percent of full market value to 25 percent and exempt the first $5,000 in an assessment increase from taxation instead of the present first $1,500.

Passage of this bill would probably send school administrators heading to the furnace room in despair.

Equally alarming to state administrators would be adoption of a proposal by spending fighter Rep. Don Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, which would provide immediate tax relief from increasing state income taxes.

It would tie the personal exemption on Illinois income taxes to the rate of inflation, thereby allowing the exemption to increase as inflation lowers its real value.

Those perennial bills that would exempt food and medicine from the sales tax may receive much more serious consideration this session than in past years because of the public's preoccupation with inflation.

A drive headed by Totten with strong bipartisan backing is already under way for a constitutional amendment to limit taxes and spending at both the state and local levels.

Another proposal submitted would prohibit any governmental body from increasing taxes without voter approval in a referendum.

Some persons involved in government at either the state or local levels are convinced that the general public is as yet unaware of how drastic the effects of the tax and spending limitations would be if they did indeed

DeMolays' chili supper on Tuesday

Mrs. Martha Simpson, president of the Granite City DeMolay Mothers' Club, has announced that the James Stuart Chapter's annual chili supper plans are complete. The all-day event at the Masonic Temple, 20th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, will be Tuesday, Feb. 20.

Serving will start at 11 a.m. and will continue through 8 p.m.

Chili or hot dogs, homemade dessert and a drink complete the menu, with carryouts available. The $1.50 tickets are being purchased in advance from DeMolays, mothers and advisers or at the door Tuesday, Mrs. Simpson added.

They hope that the public will become increasingly aware of the potential for disaster as the legislative session moves along.

The big issue is slowly building up in the Illinois legislature as it is in the Congress in Washington: Do the people really want a major reduction in taxes even at the cost of a loss of many traditional government services?

The answer will come in the weeks and months ahead.

AVOCADOS
3 $1.00

A number of years ago Avocados were considered a thing of luxury, but today, national production & year-around availability from California & Florida have made this delicious & common table fruit. Avocados are best for eating when they yield to light pressure on the outer skin. Like pears & bananas they may be purchased slightly under-ripe, & ripened at ordinary room temperatures. Serve when ripe. Use as appetizer or in salad. One-half avocado contains 182 calories. Provides more than 16% of recommended daily allowance for Vitamin A, C & E.
